song--

1965

Though our lives may seem so aimless
And our ways unguided be,
Though we may not see the answer
God is there, He's guiding us.

Life might call from off the pathway,
Bends may come along the trail,
God will lead, if we will let him,
If we trust, He will not fail.

God can see all our tomorrows,
He can tell what lies ahead.
Trusting Him we need not worry.
We will never be misled.

Thank you God for giving guidance.
Thank you for the chance to pray.
You are such a mighty leader,
Help us follow you alway.

CHORUS

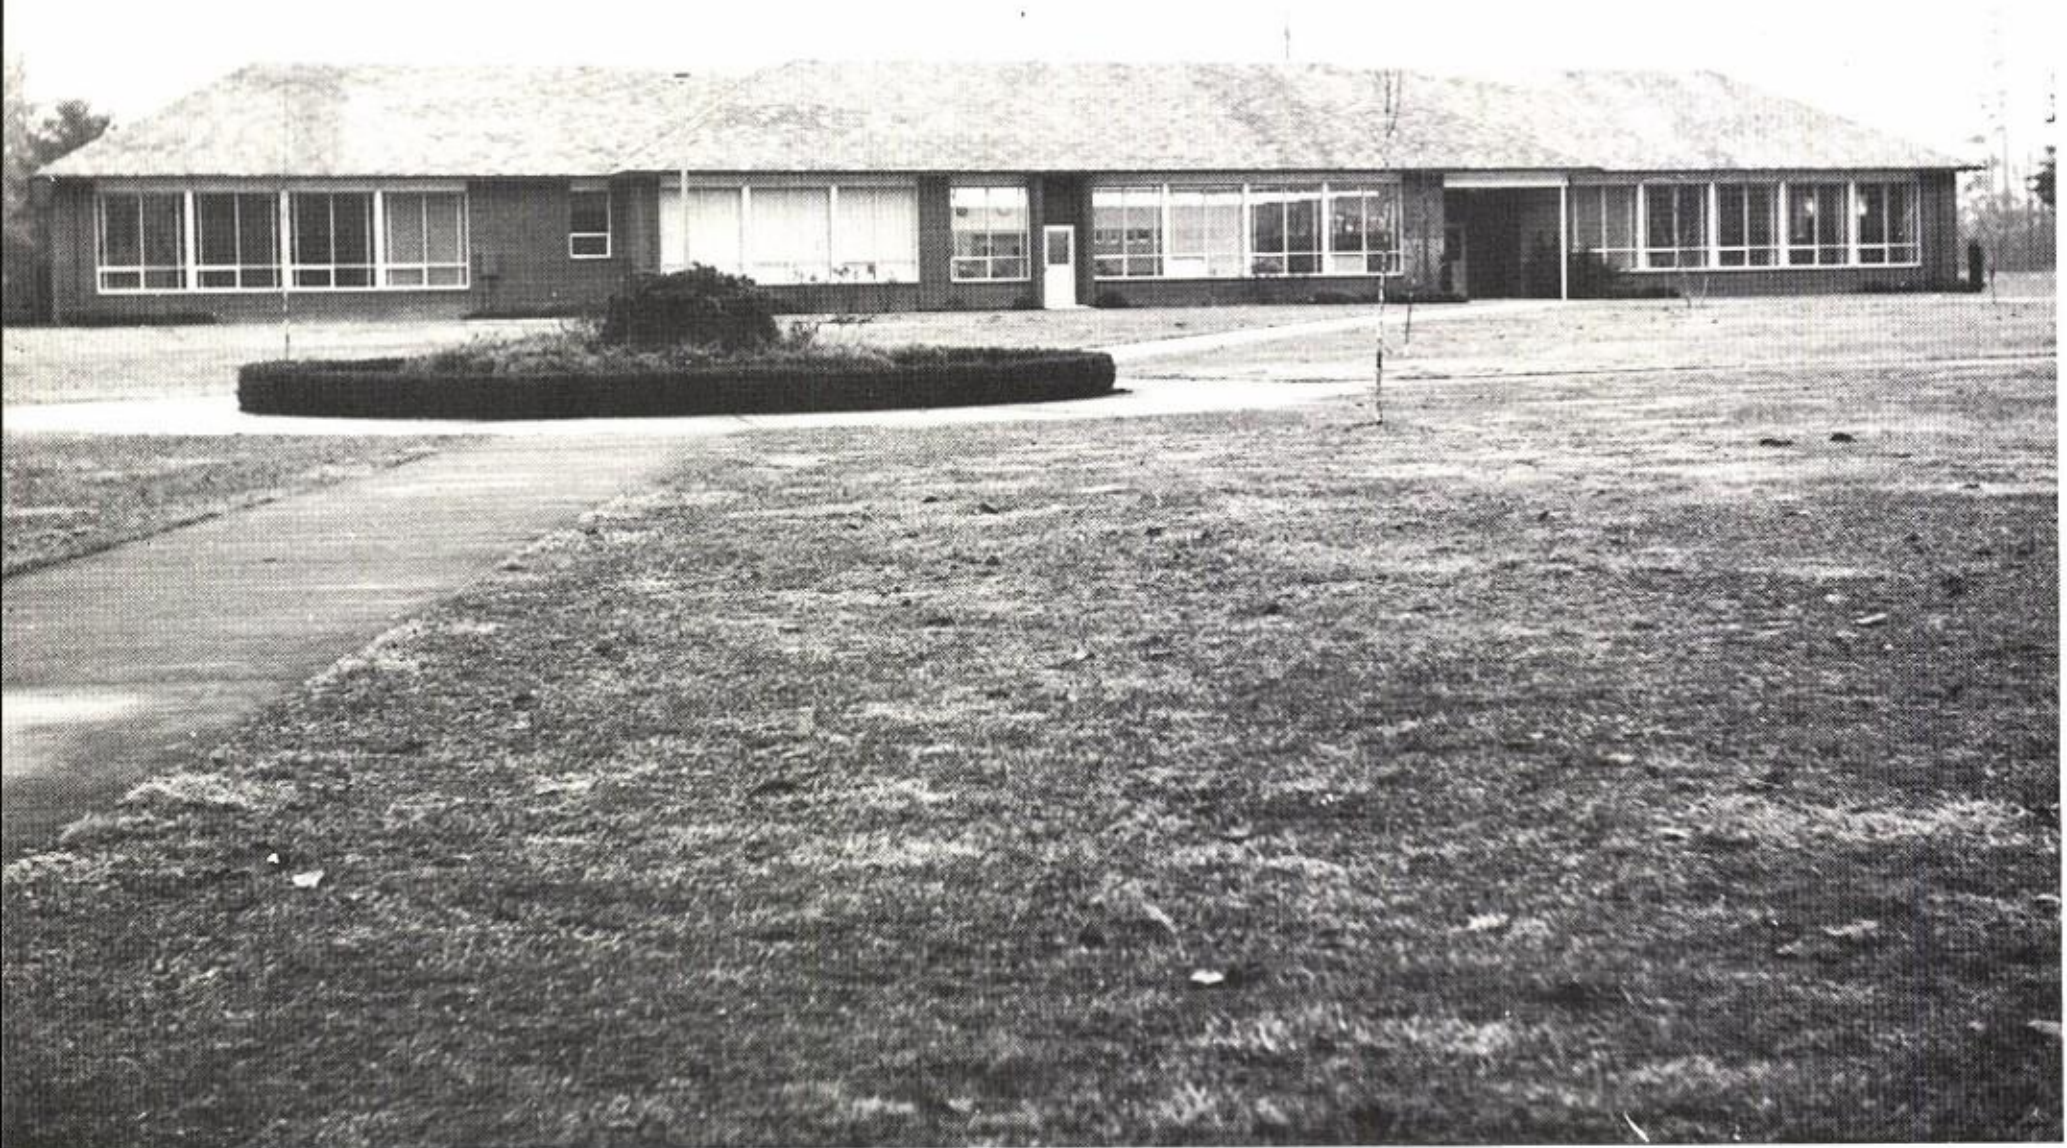

God is guiding in the morning
And He guides the busy day.
He is with us in the evening,
Loving us, he leads alway.

príncipal's message

Western was founded to Help you understand your proper relationship to God.

Help you develop proper attitudes toward others.

Help you become a disciple of Jesus.

Help you learn how to live peaceably with all.

Help develop a proper mental attitude toward life.

Help you to learn the wise use of the material.

Help you acquire the proper values of the use of time.

Help you develop your speech for communicating.

Help you appreciate the beautiful and valuable in your world.

Your life from here on will be a testimony as to how well you took advantage of your being at Western. May your God be able to help you to realize these goals Western has offered you.

Sincerely,
Paul Yoder

western student association

president's message

I have enjoyed the experiences we have shared as a student body this year. This has been a year of progress in many ways.

The student council has cooperated very well. Much has been accomplished by the various committees.

The good which has been done could not have been done without the Lord's guidance. If the students of Western in future years will continue to depend on the Lord, this year can become just a stepping stone to higher levels of Christian living.

religious welfare committee

Being actively concerned with the spiritual welfare on campus and meeting frequently the Religious Welfare Committee planned weekly prayer meetings, cells, and other spiritual activities. Crit sheets also came out twice during the year under their supervision.

Students find noon prayer meetings a help to their spiritual life.

chapel committee

Using students as speakers, leaders, and choristers, and student groups for special music, the Chapel Committee planned weekly Thursday morning chapel periods. Their efforts provided many varied and inspiring chapel programs.

Chairman Rachel Horst, advisor Mr. Lehman, Del Buerge, and Evelyn Zook.

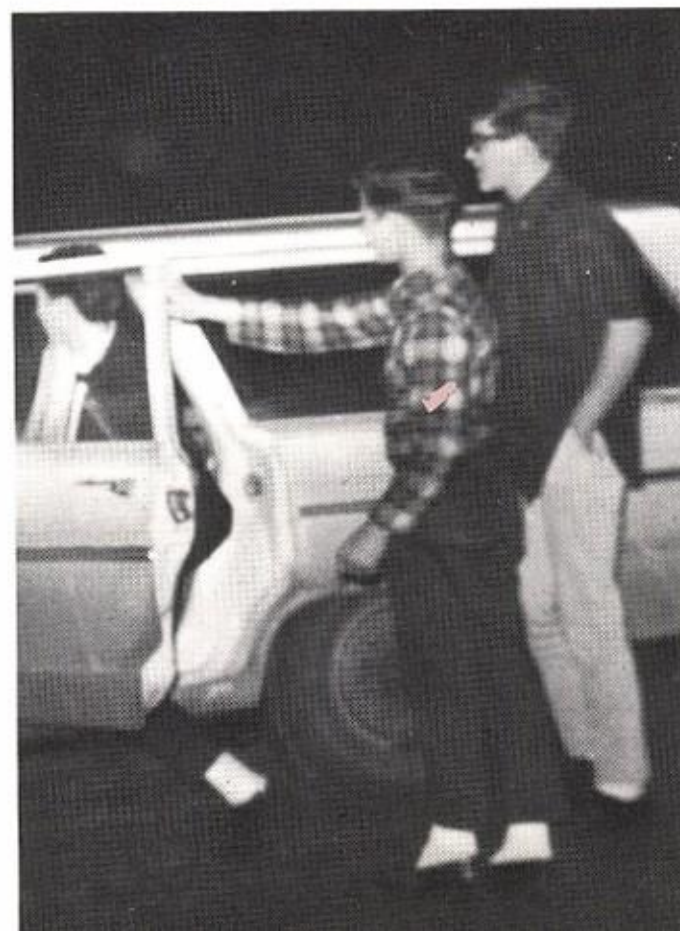

Ellen Hostetler, Chairman Janet Scheffel, and Eldon Kropf.

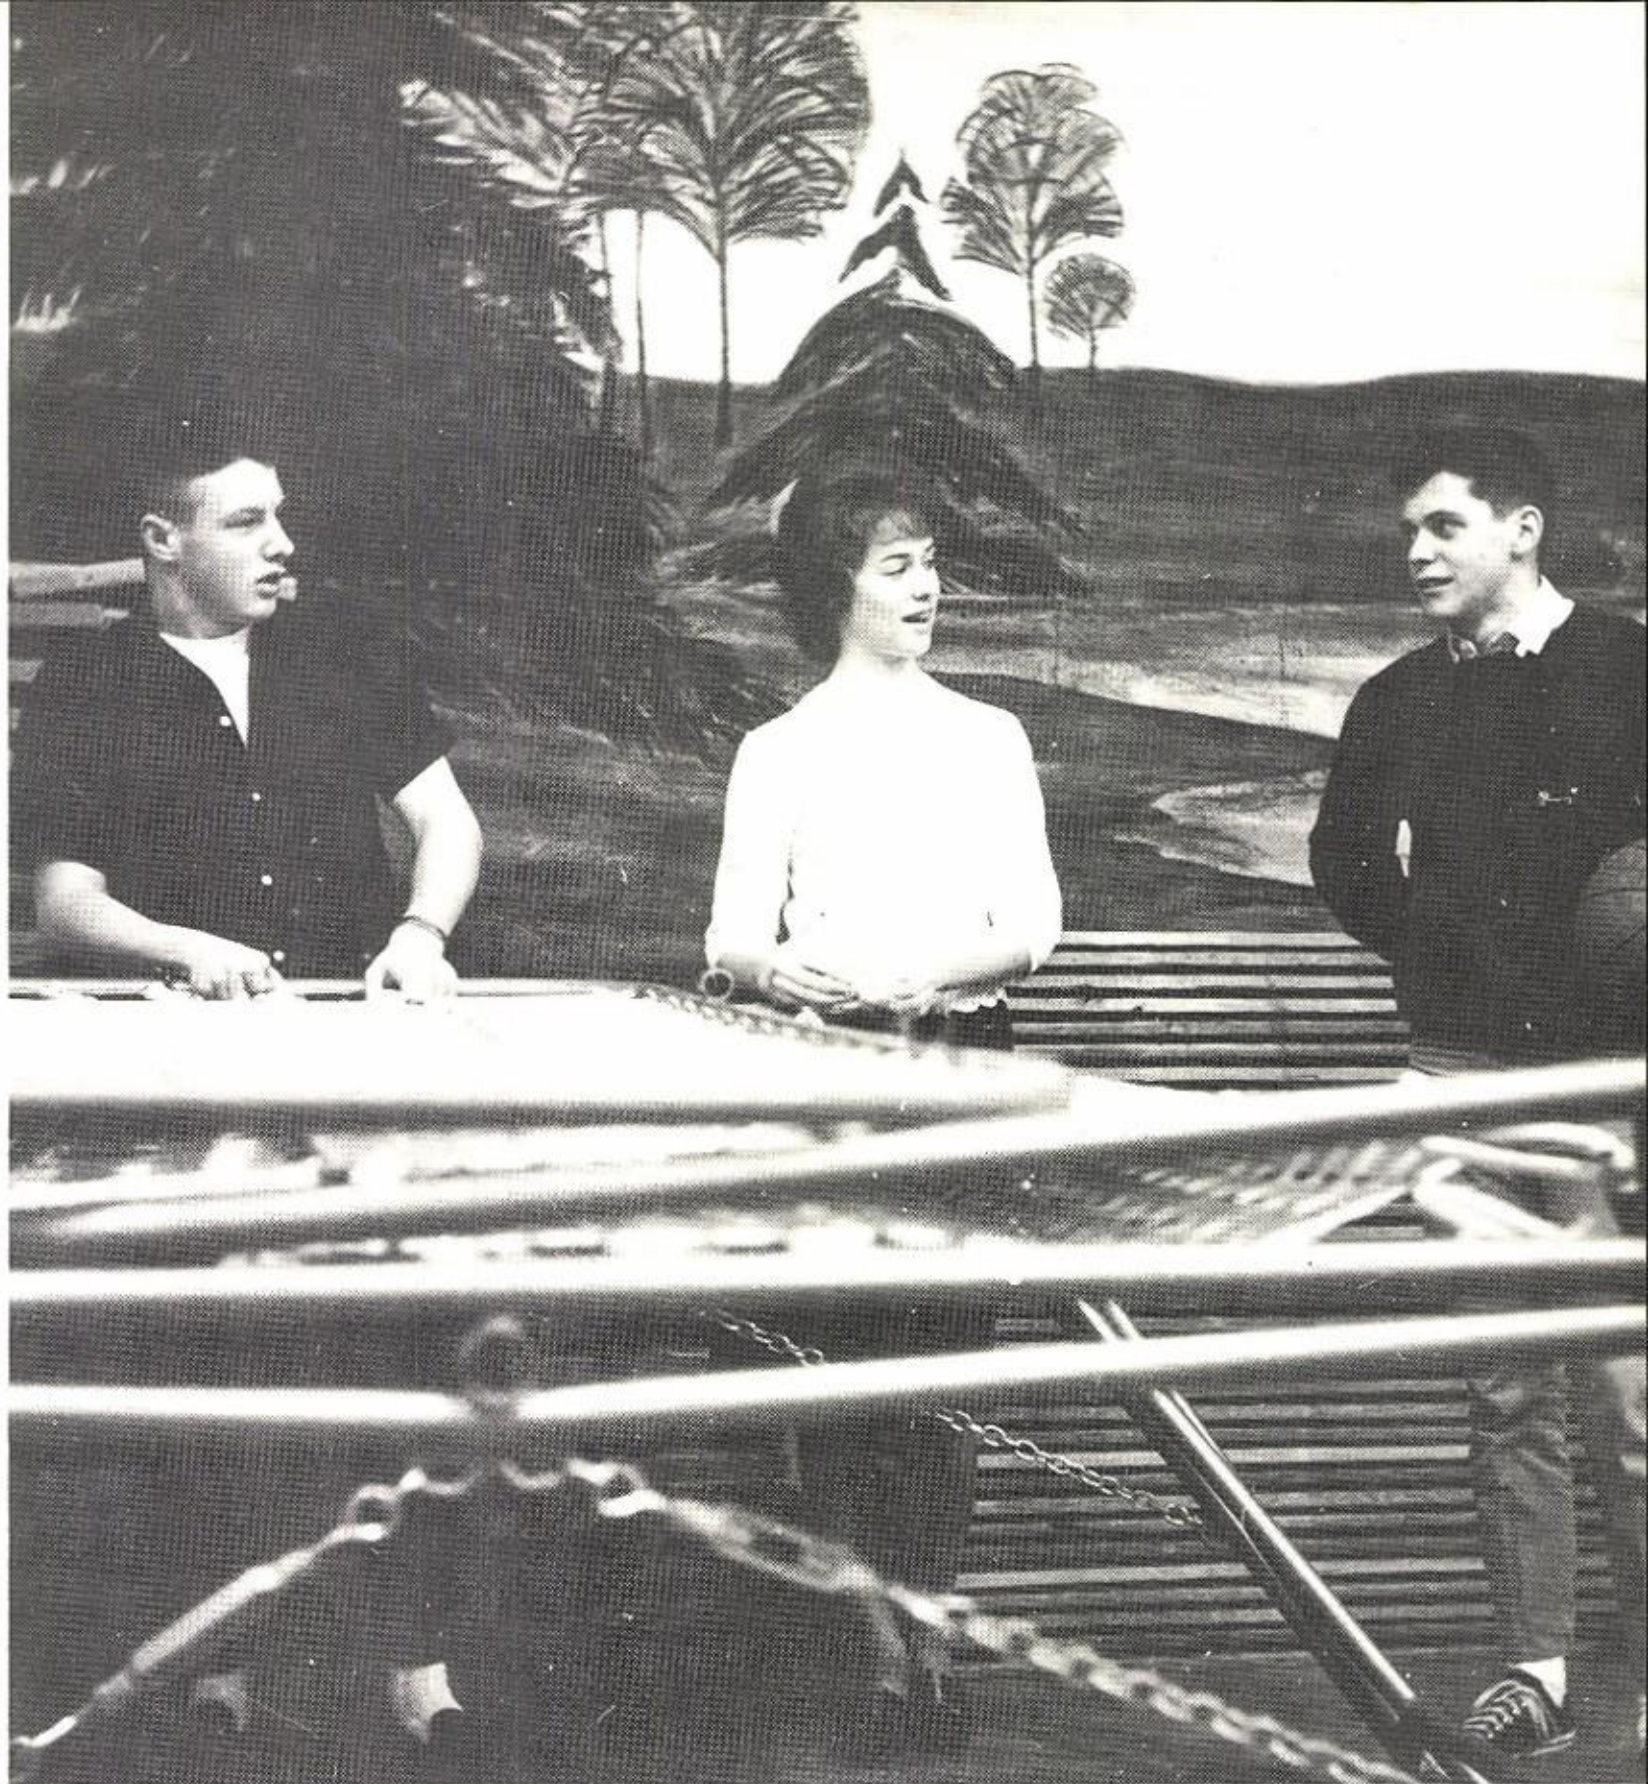

extension committee

Weekly visits to places such as Cummins Home, Fairview Homes, and the Rescue Mission provided students with the opportunity for service and made this year's extension program far-reaching. Students who sang and shared in various places found that this resulted in spiritual growth.

This Committee organized groups for extension and through their budget provided for transportation.

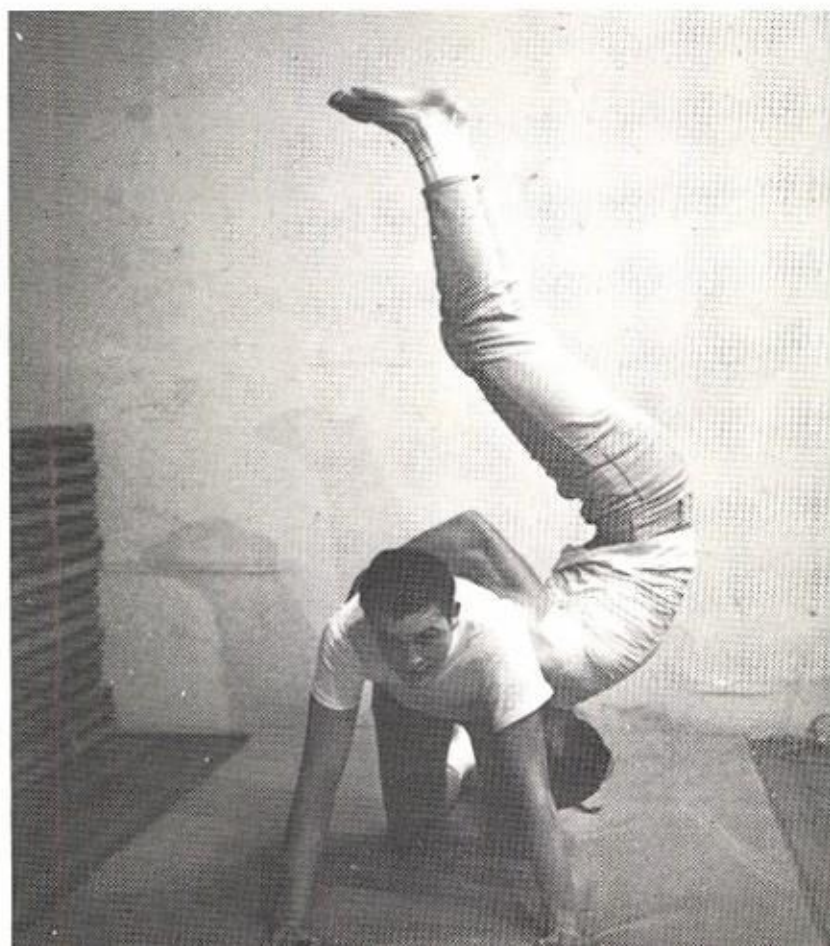

Preparing to go to the McMinnville Home on extension are Floyd Garver, Ken Kaufman, and Milton Headings.

Ron Stutzman, Susan Lais, and Chairman Roy Gerig.

Gordon Miller and Arnie Chupp spend their free time tumbling.

athletic committee

The Athletic Committee, working with the Phys. Ed. Department, organized and promoted intramural games such as basketball and football and track activities. A trampoline was added to the school's equipment through their efforts and assistance. The Committee members themselves promoted a spirit of competition by being active in sports.

Gary Hooley, Chairman Jan Coblentz, and Berdine Hosterler.

social committee

Creating decorations, writing out name cards, and securing waiters and waitresses are all an important part of planning a dress-up supper and this was the main responsibility of the Social Committee. Original ideas came in handy for the four dress-up suppers. Among these was an all school banquet and a backwards dress-up supper. Other committee sponsored activities included Student-Faculty Socials.

public occasions committee

The job of the Public Occasions Committee members was to see that the audience was given proper attention. By offering Christian hospitality and appointing ushers and usherettes this committee helped determine the success of a program.

Ramona Schweitzer, Chairman Arnie Chupp and Louise Stauffer.

Maxine Bitikofer, Darlene Martin, Stan Zook, Gaylord Kauffman, Gordon Miller, and Chairman Gene Boshart.

publicity committee

Ideas for posters announcing various types of activities were originated in the minds of the Publicity Committee. Artistic ability and drawing materials came in handy as these ideas became reality.

publications drive

What threatened to be an upsetting junior victory in the publications drive turned out to be a senior smash. Class spirit came to one of its annual peaks during the yearly drive. With a $22.11 class average the seniors captured the $50 prize and a day off from school.

Individual first, second, and third prizes of gift certificates were awarded to Maxine Bitikofer, Iris Ropp, and Floyd Schrock respectively.

Those selling $40 or more and receiving emblems were Janet Scheffel, Floyd Schrock, Maxine Bitikofer, Dennis Brubaker, Alice Hamilton, Dennis Kauffman, Iris Ropp, Danny Heyerly, and Linda Berkey.

varsity chorale

Serving as a vital part of school life at Western are the choruses, Varsity Chorale and A Cappella.

Varsity Chorale provided music for a Christmas program and for the year-end concert, "David, The Shepherd Boy."

Along with its' 12-day tour, A Cappella sang in various churches throughout the valley. This 30-voice choir also took part at the annual NFCS Musicale.

Cindy and Janet see who's best at shuffleboard.

Carol wishes she could smash one to Lora.

Sharpening their ping pong skills are Ken and Danny.

Just 15 min. 40 sec. after Mr. Hartzler's gun sounds to begin the cross-country race, Lester takes first place.

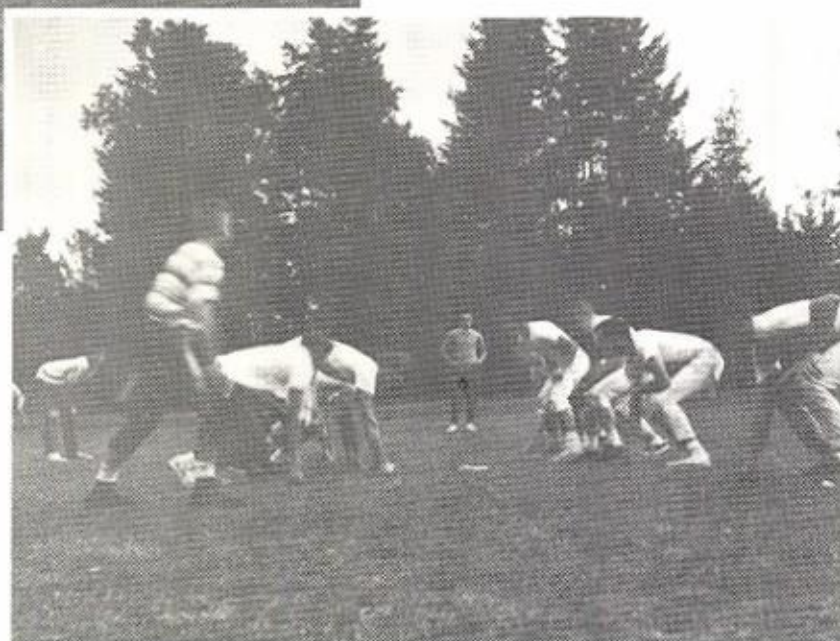

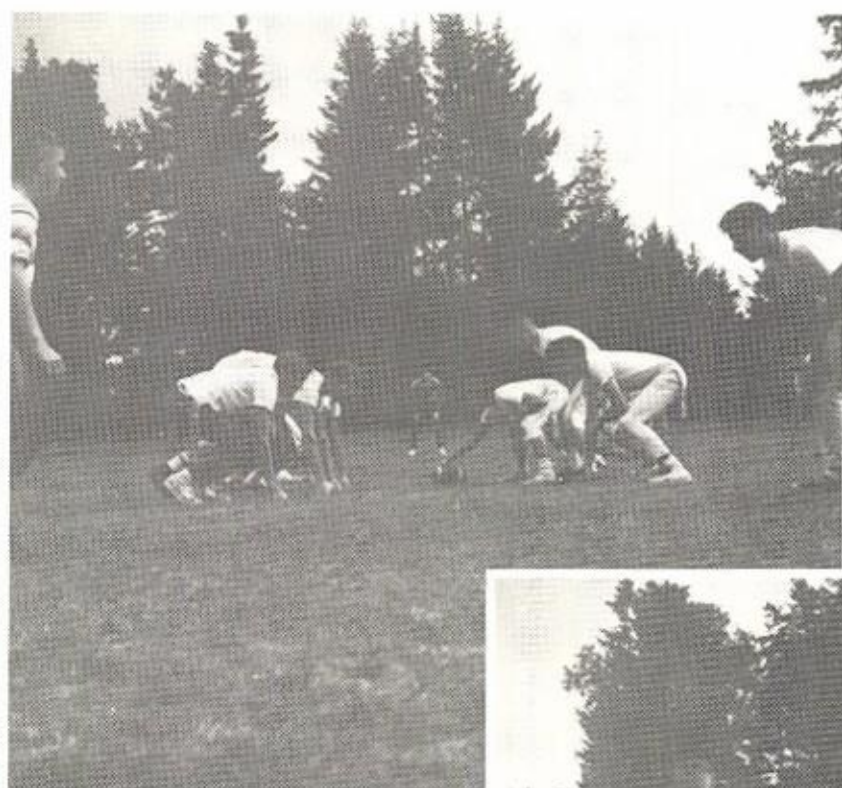

Gordon and Paul make good use of the recreation room.

minor sports

Minor sports took up many an hour both in P.E. classes and in free time. Some in which students spent enjoyable time are shuffelboard, ping-pong, badminton, swimming, volleyball, and tennis.

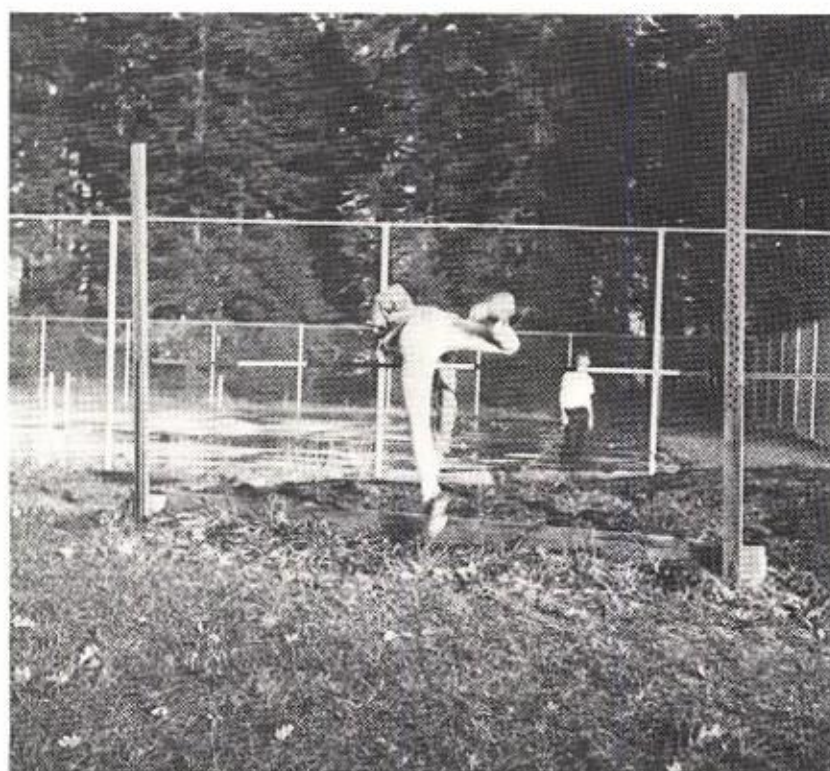

Tournaments were organized in many of these sports and as competition became keen, they served as an outlet for energy.

Beautiful autumn weather provides just the right setting for after-school football.

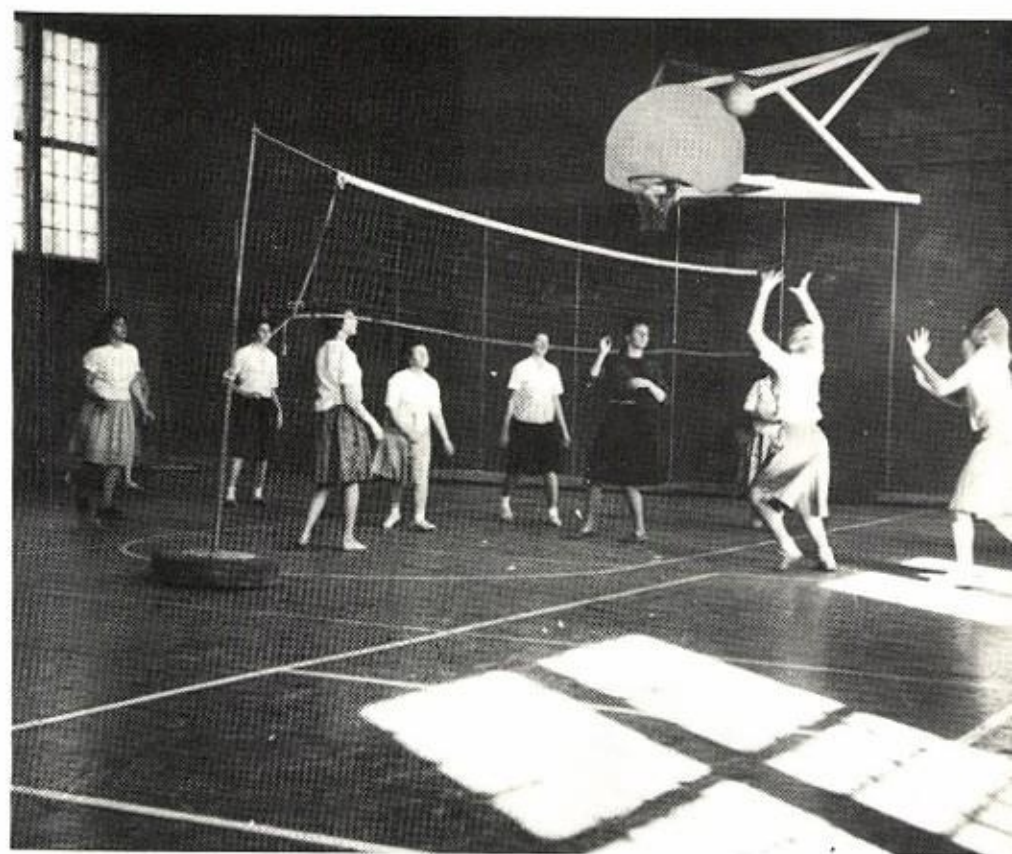

Paul sees what the winter has done to his skill in pole vaulting.

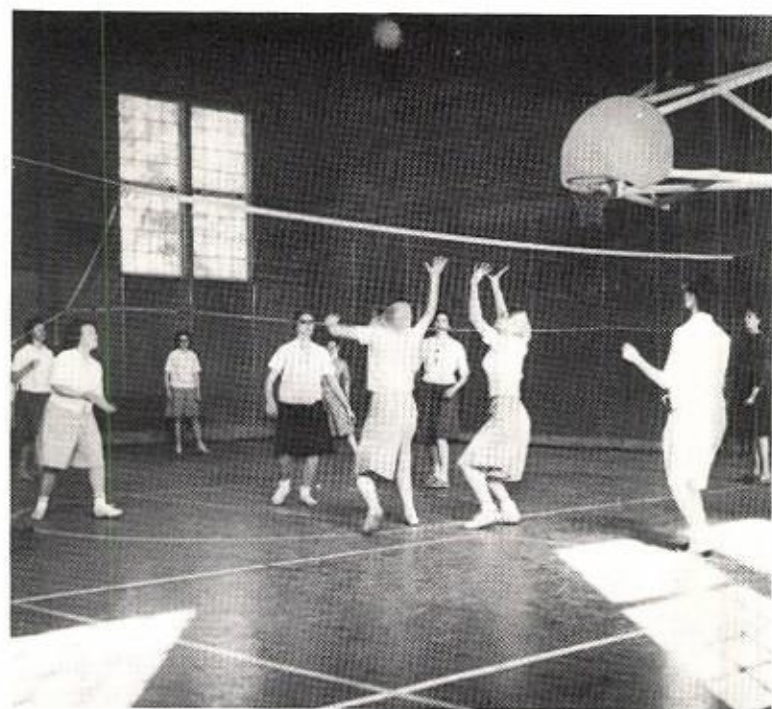

For those who are out to win, track prep starts early in the spring.

At the thump of a tennis ball, one may find Roy and Del making good use of the tennis court.

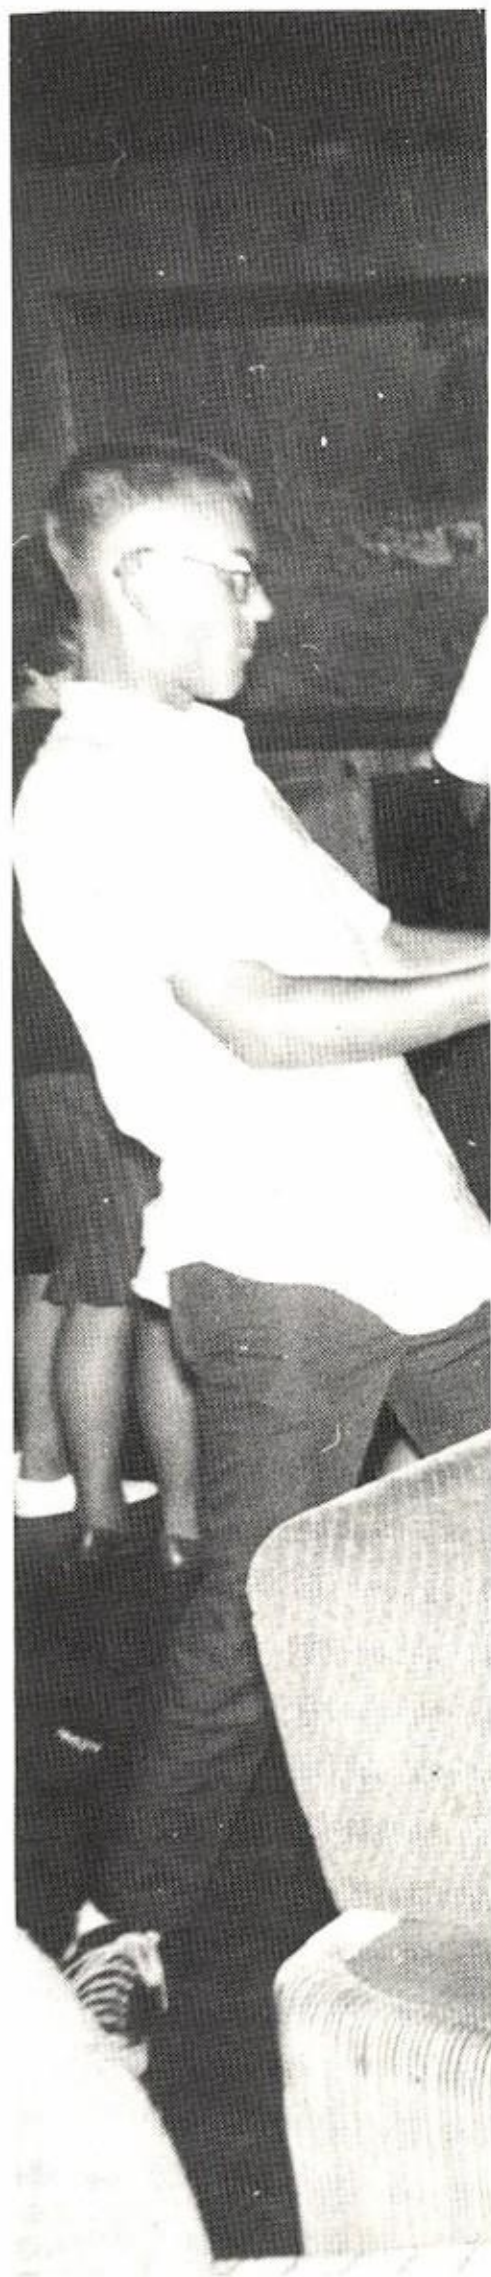

When the gym echoes and re-echoes with feminine screams, one can easily guess that volleyball is the game.

Swim classes for some P.E. students make them Monday evening regulars at the YWCA.

school day out

A windy truck ride is just the beginning of fun for the annual fall outing.

Candidates for "Queen for a Day" present their heartbreaking stories to Mr. Jack Benny.

Senior guys pull hard in the tug-of-war.

No, the principal's job isn't a joke, Mr. Garber.

Mr. Martin patiently waits for the bell on the timed writings.

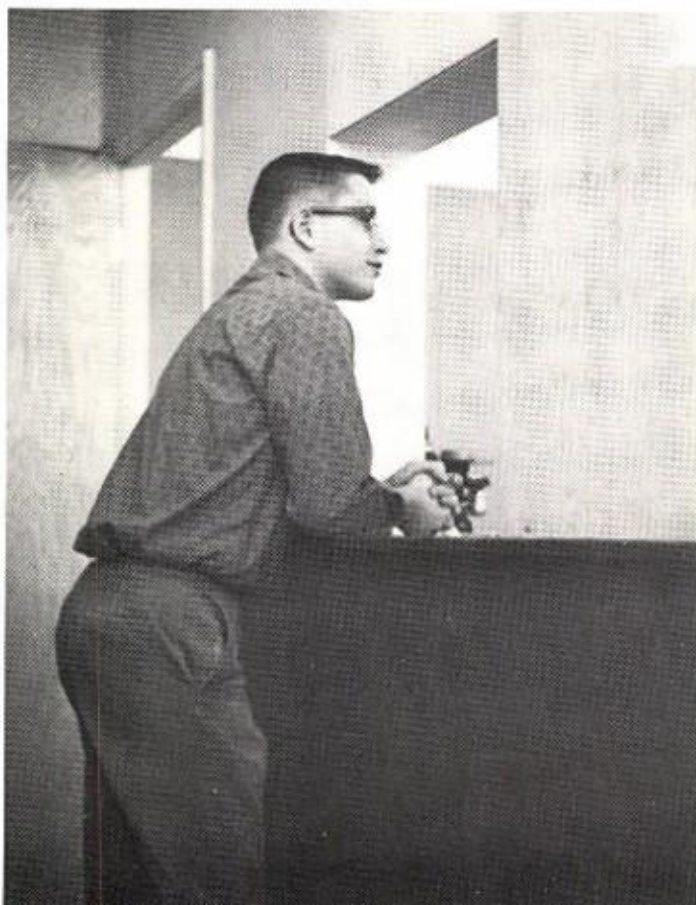

The business office serves as a meeting place for energetic teachers.

Exhausted cooks find out what it's like to be on the other side of the fence.

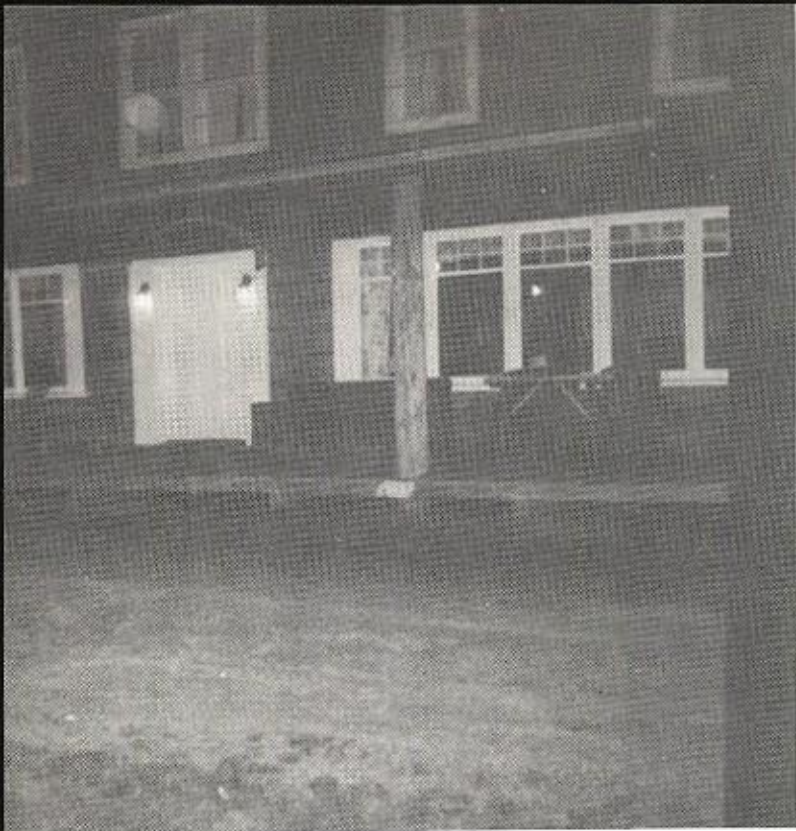

student ad day

Some students, such as Mr. Morst, seem to enjoy 'bugging' the teachers.

Dignified teachers make a pizza party the grand finale to a day full of variety.

daylight sneak- success

Grace Haven lodge looks peaceful despite the fact that 44 lively, sneaking seniors are inside.

Beachstrolling proves restful and invigorating.

Free time plus guys full of fun equals football.

For those who attempt to climb Haystack Rock, the rewards are a stranded feeling and wet feet.

How many RPM's are you getting, Rich?

Weary cooks get their turn at sampling the food.

Seniors find its almost fun to take turns doing dishes.

Sofa space is all used up while the T.V. entertains.

Arm muscle comes in handy when one must pull taffy.

A cookout adds the finishing touches to a busy day.

With an air of formality, guests at the head table enjoy their baked potatoes and ham.

an evening in holland

Banquet speaker, Dr. Herb Tyler, connects his talk with the theme.

After dinner music is provided by a mens' quartet.

Seniors line both sides of the hall as they wait to be ushered in.

A Dutch windmill acts as the conversational piece for the evening.

Reminiscing brings smiles to Mr. Yoder's face.

The fittingly dressed waiters and waitresses pose for their picture.

Senior girls down food of all sorts at their midnight School Day Out party.

Karen and Darlene enjoy the sunshine and wind on their weekend spent at the coast.

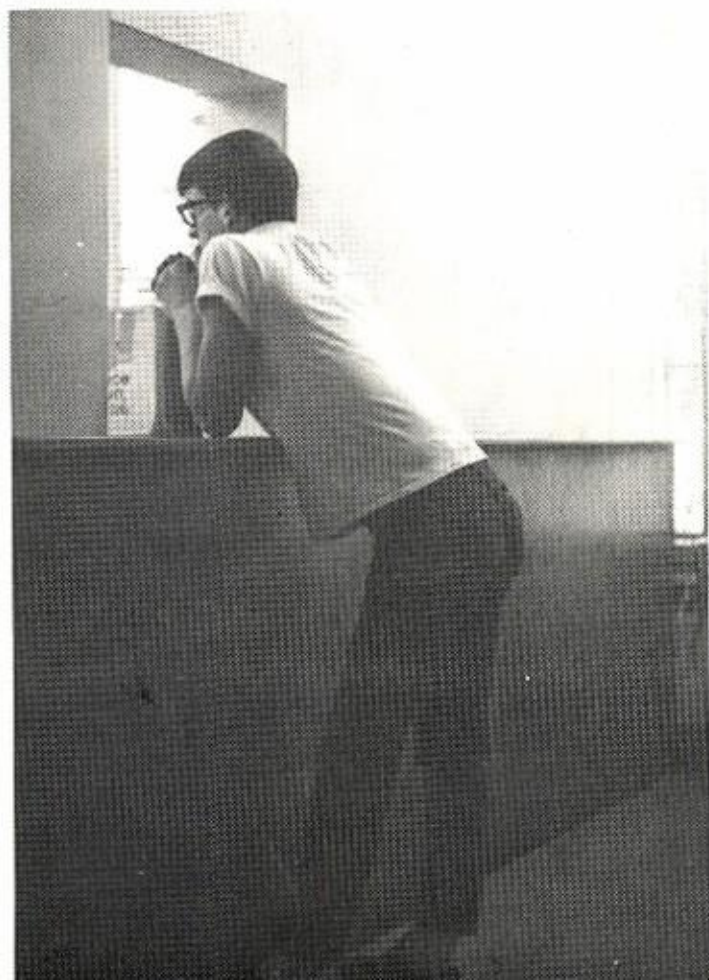

Dick, Pat, and Denton sing "All My Trials" at the noon hour hootenany held on the lawn.

Norma and Carol make good use of the lawn chairs on a beautiful spring afternoon.

For Gary, the business office is the place for all sorts of transactions.

campus

Weekend students play carom while the ocean provides background music.

A solemn funeral sets the mood for the burial of biology students dead worms.

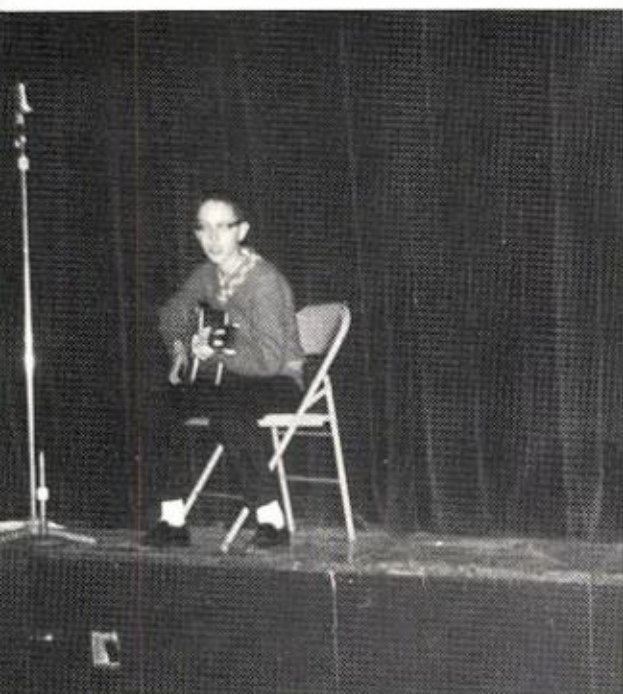

By the way, Janet doesn't drink it all herself.

Weekenders look on as 5-day students head for home.

Rex entertains with his guitar and voice.

While guitars are strummed the Tempests sing "Surf City."

Gaylord and Roy declare Room 4's board AOK.
